Exhibition: A Dutch Golden Age: Painters, Places and People in the 17th Century

Experience an extraordinary moment in art history and enjoy masterpieces by many brilliant painters from this unique period.

In the 17th Century the Dutch Republic had a booming economy, new political and religious independence and a flourishing art market. Seascapes, portraits, landscapes, domestic scenes, urban views and still lifes – all were produced and purchased in vast numbers.

The nature and volume of this body of artwork has often been called a window onto Dutch society, with its depictions of family members, churches, houses, leisure activities and the ever-present views of seas and rivers. This exhibition and our programme of events and activities is a chance to delve into a wide variety of paintings, find out about the artists who produced them, the places they saw, and the times they lived in.

Free admission

This exhibition was made possible with a grant from the Weston Loan Programme with Art Fund.

Restoring The Glory

Restoring the glory and revealing the secrets at Cannon Hall Museum, Park and Gardens

There are exciting changes afoot at Cannon Hall Museum, Park and Gardens. This idyllic setting has secured earmarked funding of over £2.8million (primarily from the Heritage Lottery Fund and the Big Lottery Fund) to restore and repair important features of the historic Georgian park and gardens.

The three year project, running until the Summer of 2020, is being managed by the Parks for People Team, who are based at the Cannon Hall site.

The regeneration includes areas such as the lakes, ice-house, gardeners' cottages, the walled garden and greenhouses. The changes will reveal many of the hidden stories and improve connections to the magnificent Georgian country house that sits at the heart of the landscape, overlooking the village of Cawthorne and beyond.

Work started in February 2018 to restore the lakes within the park, which are the subject of a long running local campaign to improve their appearance, restoring original vistas, improving water quality and supporting biodiversity. This type of work only takes place once every 20 years or so and will be interesting to local people who may want to witness this part of the restoration. Works to the buildings in the parkland and walled garden will begin in Summer 2018 and further updates about this part of the project will be available nearer the time.

Heritage Action Zone

Elsecar Heritage Action Zone is a new three year partnership between Historic England and Barnsley Museums. One of only a select few places in the country to get this special status, it recognises that Elsecar has a rich and incredible story to tell – and much more to discover too.

Elsecar was a bustling industrial village with ironworks, foundries and thriving collieries, often visited by aristocrats and Royalty. Lots is being revealed all the time, with local people finding out and helping to share the history of the places around them.

Get in touch with us to find out more about what's going to be happening, including archaeological digs, walks, talks and lots of chances to share memories and make history!

For more information, contact Tegwen Roberts at tegwenroberts@barnsley.gov.uk or call 01226 740203

Great Place

Over the next three years, 'Great Place' will celebrate the rich shared history of Wentworth Woodhouse and its estate villages: Wentworth and the industrial model village of Elsecar.

Great Place will deliver fantastic festivals, exciting events and lots of activities to get involved in. In particular, thousands of young people in the local area will contribute, connecting and re connecting with the places they live.

Highlights of the first few months of the project include the villages welcoming the Tour de Yorkshire on 4th May, with fluttering bunting and banners in Elsecar and beautiful land art at Wentworth Woodhouse. The arrival of Man Engine to Elsecar and Wentworth in June promises to be spectacular too!

Great Place is a partnership between Wentworth Woodhouse Preservation Trust and Elsecar Heritage Centre, and Rotherham MBC and Barnsley Council. The project is supported by the Heritage Lottery Fund and the Arts Council.
